NATIONAL SYMBOLS

INTRODUCTION: NAMIBIA NATIONAL SYMBOLS

National Symbols are visual and conceptual emblems or representations that serve to communicate a range of ascribed, apparent or assumed meanings. They encode particulars of a nation's sovereign existence or her identifying characteristics in the community of nations. Over a period of time, such emblems or symbols become deeply embedded in memory of a people and thus serve as a source of national dignity and patriotic pride. As they become more and more widely used and accepted, national symbols are capable of inspiring in people an abiding loyalty to their homeland. All national symbols are protected by law, which prohibits any act or intent to insult, display contempt or hold them up to ridicule.

MINISTER'S FOREWORD

Minister
Hon. Emma Theofelus

The mandate of the Ministry of Information and Communication Technology (MICT) is to coordinate information management and dissemination within and between the Government and the public. Thus, we take note of the need to facilitate proper contact between Government office bearers and the recipients of Government services. It is for this reason that we dedicate this edition of the Government Information Bulletin (GIB) to provide you with updated government address list.

The user-friendly directory has proven to be a viable educational tool as well as a provision for a channel through which the public could make inquiries and obtain relevant information from government offices. We therefore encourage institutions and individuals to keep a copy of this edition of GIB. It is also our belief that this bulletin will be a vital resource to help you learn about the government and its services. In this regard, the Ministry of Information and Communication Technology wishes to extend its sincere gratitude and appreciation to Offices, Ministries and Agencies that have provided us with information to update this government address list.

Namibians have the right to contact any government institution, including the offices of the President, the Prime Minister and other Government ministries to make enquiries on any matter of public interest.

Namibia prides itself with an atmosphere of peace, stability and good governance on the African continent. It is this atmosphere that continues to facilitate the implementation of our developmental policies, programmes and projects in all sectors of our society throughout the country.

Let us all cherish and guard it jealously. Where there is peace, there is progress.

Government Information Bulletin: Publicising Government

The Government Information Bulletin was established through Cabinet decision number 13th/04.07.06/006 as an official information bulletin to publicise Government's programmes, policies and activities for the benefit of Government institutions and the Namibian public. All the Government institutions contribute toward the Bulletin. The Government Information Bulletin is published Quarterly by the Ministry of Information and Communication Technology. To meet the specific information needs of the communities, the public is invited to send comments and suggestions on Government projects, programmes and policies, which will then be covered in the bulletin. The Bulletin is distributed at no cost through the Ministry's regional offices. The public and organisations are welcome to subscribe to the Bulletin, but mailing costs will be for the account of the subscriber.

THE PRESIDENCY

The role of the Presidency is to provide support services to the President, Vice-President, Prime Minister and Deputy Prime Minister in the execution of their constitutional obligations and duties. The Presidency includes all of the roles that are in line with the constitutional provisions, as well as other positions such as Ministers and Special Advisors and staff members from the public service whose functions would be to serve the Presidency in the execution of their duties.

The President and Prime Minister, together with their respective Deputies, represent the executive and administrative heartbeat of Government business. The Ministers and Special Advisors assigned to this office will be required to provide strategic leadership, management and administrative support services to the above-mentioned Constitutional Mandates.

It is key for all of these roles to be institutionalised within the Presidency to ensure strategic leadership and communication to both the State and society.

President of the Republic of Namibia
H.E. Dr. Nangolo Mbumba

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Address: State House, 1 Engelberg Street, Auasblick.

The President is constitutionally defined as the Head of State and of the Government, as well as the Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces and the custodian of peace, security and stability of the country. The primary responsibilities of the President are to use his executive powers in the best interest of the country and to uphold, protect and defend the Constitution.

The Presidency must operate in a manner in which it: Provides leadership to the Government to ensure the implementation of the Election Manifesto by ensuring an effective and professional civil service which is able to provide the Namibian nation with efficient service delivery; Effectively communicate government programmes and policies to the Namibian nation and ensure understanding of key issues at national level; This should translate into a country where the state and society work towards a common vision of holding public servants and citizens equally accountable to a shared vision of inclusivity and accountability; Ensure appropriate alignment and cooperation of government Ministries and State-owned Enterprises by ensuring strategic coordination of efforts and drive outcomes; Monitor and evaluate the individual and collective performance of Ministers, as well as their assigned Ministries. This is to ensure output which focuses on cost-sensitive and effective results as well as cost-efficiency; Supports the key roles in the Presidency to exercise their constitutional responsibilities while promoting social cohesion and national unity; and shape how Namibians relate to one another and to the world by adhering to constitutional imperatives of inclusivity and national reconciliation.
